

Virtual Events

Community Guidelines

Virtual events are designed to be safe and open environments for all participants. Here are the guidelines to follow during these events:

- Please be kind, open-minded, and respectful of everyone's opinions and life experiences.
 - Do your part to create a judgment-free zone to make the event a positive and meaningful experience for all.
- Help us foster a safe environment by keeping all breakout and chat discussions confidential.
 - While sharing about the event on social media is encouraged, the content of small group video breakouts and chats is private. Please do not share pictures, screenshots, or information from the chat or breakout sessions in any format.
- Help us foster a safe environment by using your real identity.
 - In order to create an open, honest, and transparent community you must use your real name or initials and upload a real picture of yourself to your profile.
- Do not engage in malicious or offensive speech or negative behavior.
 - Do not use vulgar speech or other language that may make other participants feel uncomfortable. Event participants are diverse in their experiences, personalities, and cultures. Please do not make assumptions and be sensitive to others' perspectives.
- Do not ask for or give medical advice.
 - Everyone's experience with ECD and other medical conditions are unique to them. You may learn about how others manage ECD or additional diseases as they share their stories. However, please do not make any changes to your own treatment plan without first consulting your care team. The discussions in our sessions are not intended to be a substitute for medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment recommendations from a qualified professional. If you require medical attention, please consult a clinician, either at your care center or at another treatment institution.

One or more violations of these guidelines may result in your removal from a session, the event, or the virtual environment.

In addition, the information you provide during registration will be stored on secure third-party platforms, as it relates to your registration and attendance of this virtual event. The ECD Global Alliance may use this information in the future for the organization's general business functions. The ECDGA will keep any sensitive information it gathers secure and confidential.

By registering, you agree that you understand the ECDGA will handle your information as described in its Privacy Policy.

By entering the platform, you agree to these guidelines. Thank you for helping to ensure that virtual events are a positive experience for everyone involved.

We're looking forward to your participation!
